Morristown, NJ – May 1, 2026 – HighCamp Compliance, a boutique employee-owned compliance consulting and outsourcing firm, today announced the promotion of Directors Brian Caravello and Brian Lattanzio to Partner.

At HighCamp, partnership reflects not just technical excellence but sound judgment, alignment in values, and commitment to creating a durable and lasting company.

Brian Caravello brings deep regulatory experience and a perspective shaped by years on the regulator side of the table. He is a trusted advisor to clients and a tremendous resource, known for clear judgment and steady execution on complex matters.

Brian Lattanzio has built his career across both consulting and in-house roles and has been central to several of the firm's key initiatives, including strategic partnerships and the development of our Morristown office. He is versatile, pragmatic, and trusted to deliver for clients and the team alike.

“When I considered leaving the SEC, it was important for me to find a firm where I could continue doing meaningful, high-impact work alongside people I trust and respect. That’s exactly what I’ve found at HighCamp. I’m grateful to have found a professional home here and look forward to working with such a talented team to support our clients’ evolving compliance needs as a partner,” said Caravello.

Lattanzio added, “Joining the partnership is especially meaningful to me, having started my career working alongside each of HighCamp’s current partners. The opportunity to reunite with this team and help expand our presence in the NY Metro area, while building something meaningful in my own community, has been incredibly rewarding. I’m excited to continue helping our clients navigate an increasingly complex regulatory landscape and contribute to the firm’s collective growth.”

Founder Brad Burgtorf said, “Brian and Brian are team-first, high-character people who make everyone around them better. They’ve earned trust, and they take pride in the work. That’s what partnership looks like here.”

Please join us in congratulating Brian Caravello and Brian Lattanzio on their well-deserved promotions.
